

TAC-MED Expert Profile

RICK PESCATORE, D.O. (CAND.)

Rick is currently working with and training emergency service personnel in the Philadelphia Region and has been active in emergency services for nearly a decade. Rick is in his final year of medical school at the Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine. He graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy with a B.S. in Aerospace Engineering before entering the Navy's Submarine Warfare community. He has served in various capacities in both the military and civilian sectors, including as a combat medicine subject matter expert and later captain of the USNA Infantry Skills Team.

Rick has practiced or consulted on austere medicine across the world, and was recently recognized by the Siem Reap Provincial Hospital for his efforts in extending healthcare access to Cambodia's rural poor.

MR. PESCATORE GIVES EXPERT COMMENT ON:

- Tactical Medicine
- Pre-hospital Medicine
- International Medicine in the Austere Environment

EVENTS BENEFITTING FROM MR. PESCATORE'S COMMENTARY:

- EMS and Law Enforcement Training
- Mass casualty incidents
- Tactical and disaster medical training

Realistic training for an unsecure world...

Tac-Med is an educational group comprised of operators from emergency medical services, law enforcement, medicine, and the military that have been teaching disaster response and tactical medicine since 2007.

Call 610-551-2400
for all media inquiries.

